Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

THE Texas Weekly ties up Secretary Wallace's speech at Amarillo with the recent victory of a Republican candidate for congress in Rhode Island.

Rhode Island Vote Is Real Jolt for Democrats—Price

Chief of A.P. Washington Bureau Reviews Election Bombshell

ISSUE WAS F. D. R.

But Conservative New England Is Not True Picture of Nation

By BYRON PRICE
Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington

Back of the political dust-storm of public statements stirred up by the Rhode Island election, certain facts stand out and cannot be talked away.

The central fact is that the Democrats suffered an overwhelming defeat in a congressional district heretofore Democratic, after a campaign in which both candidates made the Roosevelt policies the issue.

A collateral fact is that in the same election the state rejected a bond issue recommended by Secretary Lick as part of the federal works program.

Pertinent to any political assessment of the result are the additional facts that the district is a center of the textile industry; that it lies in traditionally conservative and wealthy New England; and that, according to most observers, a large part of the majority vote was a "protest" vote—reflecting discontent with the Democrats rather than affirmative support of the Republicans.

Hope, Not Conviction
From these facts everyone is, of course, free to draw his own conclusions. Most of the partisan statements issued by the politicians shed no light on the situation, and mean nothing either way.

There are exceptions. For instance, Democratic Senator Gerry of Rhode Island said: "The processing tax came into it and, I think, the tariff—the death sentence and this so-called revenue bill, which is very destructive, did too."

The local pull of the processing tax and wealth-tax issues is quite obvious. New England and the east generally are on the contributing end of both, not on the receiving end. There has been much Rhode Island protest especially about the processing tax on cotton, which the textile operators claim is reducing consumption.

Geo. W. Robison Co. Buyers to Dallas

C. C. Lewis, Geo. W. Robison, Jr., Mrs. Geo. W. Robison and Mrs. H. C. Stewart of the Geo. W. Robison & Co., and the ready-to-wear buyers from the company's Nashville and Prescott stores, left Sunday for Dallas where they will attend the fall fashion shows and purchase ladies ready-to-wear and accessories for the company's three stores. They will spend about a week in this important southern market.

Mr. Lewis, who returned Friday from the St. Louis markets, stated that there was the largest attendance of out-of-town buyers at this year's merchandise mart in several years and that the fall buying was exceptional, by heavy. He said that retailers in general are anticipating the best fall business they had had in years.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

HCC, U. S. PAT. OFF.

Hot weather's the time to seize the opportunity to travel on the high seas.

The Republican candidate, says The Weekly, made very effective use of the processing tax as an issue. He told the voters that the processing tax had shut down cotton mills and caused unemployment, and evidently enough of them believed him to send him to Washington to work for repeal of the processing tax.

Meanwhile, out in Amarillo Secretary Wallace was saying that "the only way to do away with the processing tax is to do away with the tariff."

Texas Weekly then makes this comment:

It gives added pertinence to the question as to why the Democrats have not done enough about the tariff to make the processing tax unnecessary. Mr. Wallace is quoted as saying that the bitterest opponents of the processing tax are among those who reap benefits from the tariff. Has it been the fear of their opposition to tariff reduction that has kept the Democrats from reducing the tariff? "The big boys should not have one set of rules for themselves and another for us," Mr. Wallace is quoted as saying. Why not? Have not the tariff monopolists always looked at it that way in the past? The traditional Democratic policy has been "equal rights to all and special privileges to none." Why did the Democrats at Washington, completely in concert with the government, abandon that policy? And yet the Texas Weekly is not entirely fair in its summary of conditions confronting the national administration.

X X X
Older readers of The Star will recall the history of the tariff a generation and more ago.

Republicans would build the tariff so prohibitive, high—feeding the profits of selfish and grasping manufacturers—that finally trade was stifled and the country found itself in a panic.

Then the Democrats would come in, the tariffs would be modified, and trade would be restored.

This is the historic cycle of trade and tariffs in the United States.

But today we are faced with a situation growing out of the impoverishment of Europe by the World War. Europe had relatively little gold, and in order to conserve that little gold she adopted the American system of tariffs to keep her people from spending that gold for our manufactured goods.

Thus, today, we can no longer restore prosperity by simply marking down our own tariffs—for tariffs have been set up against us abroad.

We can no longer handle the tariff question by American enactment—but we must handle it through trade treaties, a matter on which Secretary Hull of the State Office is working diligently.

X X X
Meanwhile, there must be some "stop-gap" to hold down production until foreign markets can be restored.

Meanwhile, also, some political means must be adopted to bring a majority of the American people to realize that the tariffs must finally be reduced.

It is obvious that agriculture's use of the processing tax will drive the tariff lesson home to industry.

Either the processing tax stays up, or the tariff comes down. It seems to this writer that the administration is doing the only thing it can do.

Few Drunkenness Cases on Docket

Light Day in Hope Municipal Court Proceedings Monday

A decrease in the number of drunkenness cases was noted in a short session of municipal court Monday. Only five cases were on the docket.

Two of the cases were against Hope negroes; the other three against persons living outside of Hope.

Ambrose Browning and Lewis Fuller pleaded guilty to drunkenness and each was fined $10. P. J. Purdie and Parker Walker forfeited $10 cash bonds. A drunkenness charge against Claude Walker was dismissed.

Ed Oliver pleaded guilty to Sabbath breaking and was fined $25. The fine was suspended during good behavior. He was charged with playing cards.

Charges of Sabbath breaking against Robert Johnson, Jackson Lewis and Charles Smith were dismissed by City

Industry Launches a Thousand Suits on Process Taxes

Millers, Ginners, Packers Press Attack on Triple-A Program

REPORT COAL BILL

But Fight Looms—Committee Vote on Guffey Measure Is 12 to 11

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—With fresh recruits daily rushing into the fight against the AAA, government lawyers predicted Monday that the processing taxes would face more than 1,000 attacks on courtroom fronts by mid-week.

Led by the wheat millers, cotton ginners and meat packers, the processors of every basic commodity have joined the fray.

Coal Bill Recommended

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The Guffey coal stabilization bill was approved by the house ways and means committee Monday by a vote of 12 to 11.

Two members answered "present" when the vote was taken. The new draft of the measure, embodying amendments already made public, will be reported formally to the house. Plans are to take it on the floor by Wednesday.

The bill would set up a national commission to enforce wage, hour, fair trade practice, and price fixing regulation for the soft coal industry.

Ethiopia Threat to World Peace

History of War Repeating Itself, Declares Emperor Selassie

BULLETIN

ROME, Italy.—(AP)—Orders distributed Monday indicated the mobilization of an Italian force of 1½ million men for war maneuvers in northern Italy August 21, bringing the total Italian army strength close to one million men.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia.—(AP)—Emperor Selassie foretold the "danger of a world war again" in an address Monday to the civil, military and religious Ethiopian authorities. He said the empire places its hope for peace in the impartiality of the League of Nations.

Referring to a world war, the emperor said: "History is repeating itself in this crisis."

New Proposal

PARIS, France.—(AP)—The Havas News Agency reported Sunday night from Addis Ababa that Emperor Haile Selassie announced Ethiopia was willing to cede part of her territory to Italy in exchange for an outlet to the sea and financial assistance.

"Our government always wanted to obtain loans for development of the country and for speeding up works of civilization which have been undertaken," the emperor told interviewers.

"But another means of aiding the economic development of the country is to obtain a port for Ethiopia and if it would fulfill our two aspirations, we would see no objections to ceding part of Ogaden," he was quoted as saying.

The emperor, it was reported, first stressed the view "we do not wish the independence of the country to be touched. Neither do we desire that offense should be given to Italian prestige."

Outlining what might be done, he was quoted as saying "against the advantages of financial and economical nature such as the concession of a loan and the cession of a port such as Anthony Eden of Britain has proposed in the interests of peace, we can envisage the cession of a portion of territory."

"The realization of an understanding on this basis would involve numerous details the importance of which it is not necessary to underline and which would have to be discussed."

THE NEW DEAL IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON.—Few realize that the trait, dashing figure of former Secretary of War Pat Hurley, standing before the Black lobby committee and making a lot of fuss about the questions, was that of an earnest presidential candidate in whose stout heart hope never dies.

Mr. Hurley protests that he was being singled out because of his Republicanism reflected that inner ambition. He is a conspicuous example of the way the presidential chigger burrows under a man's skin, to remain through the host's last stages of decrepitude and senility.

As in many similar cases, even his best friends can't persuade attractive Pat Hurley that he has no more chance

Showdown Is Due on Union Struggle With Wage Scale of WPA

NEW YORK.—(AP)—The wage dispute between the Works Progress Administration and labor unions was due for a showdown Monday.

Pronouncements by spokesmen for skilled workers seeking a prevailing wage scale instead of the government's security wage of $33.50 indicated the trend union tactics will take on the fifth day of the large scale walkout.

George Meany, president of the state federation of Labor, said WPA officials "may be able to get enough men to report to make it look like the job is manned, but if they try to put them to work, they won't work."

Labor leaders also attacked the "no work, no relief" ultimatum of President Roosevelt which cut off the workers from subsisting on federal relief while pushing their drey for the prevailing wage.

Langdon W. Post, tenement house commissioner, buttressed by the presidential decree that a walkout of relief workers could not be construed as a strike, said he would put to work men on the nation re-employment service rolls if workmen did not return Tuesday to the Astor Low cost housing project on the lower East Side.

Strike Continues

CROSSETT, Ark.—(AP)—Continued suspension of operations at the Crossett Lumber company plant where a labor dispute developed last week, was announced Monday by Sheriff John Riley, who offered his services as mediator between the mill management and workers who walked out in support of the carpenters' union employment demands.

The sheriff said his efforts to bring about a joint conference was still unsuccessful Monday morning, but that the situation "is entirely quiet."

A few pickets appeared about the mill during the early morning but dispersed voluntarily.

Senator Caraway Silent on Kingfish

Refuses to Reveal Her Position in the Robinson-Long Feud

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Senator Hattie Caraway, Arkansas Democrat, is not crossing any campaign bridges until she comes to them.

Sensor Huey Long has indicated he intends to campaign against Senator Robinson next summer when he runs for re-election. In the campaign which resulted in her election to the senate in 1932 Long went into Arkansas and spoke in Mrs. Caraway's behalf.

Asked Monday whether she would join her friend Long against Robinson, Mrs. Caraway said: "This isn't election year."

Italians, Negroes Battle in Jersey

Louis-Carnera Fight, Ethiopian Dispute, Touch Off Fireworks

JERSEY CITY, N. J.—(AP)—Armed bands of whites from an Italian settlement and negroes clashed in a street fight Sunday after arguments over the Hale-Ethiopian dispute. Knives flashed and clubs and fists flew as more than 100 rioters met in hand-to-hand combat. One rioter used a rifle as a club.

Five were injured and 11 arrested. Police said verbal exchanges over Joe Louis, negro heavyweight contender who recently knocked out Primo Carnera, and the Hale-Ethiopian situation touched off the battle.

Within a few minutes after the first blows were struck, scores rushed into the fray to reinforce both sides. Milling, screaming groups clashed while 500 spectators cheered and urged them on.

Houser Is Buried Here; Kinsmen Unable to Untie Bank Account

Body of Mysteriously-Dead Tourist Laid to Rest Far From California Home and Family

Before half a dozen dry-eyed spectators and two funeral directors, the body of W. N. Houser was laid to rest Sunday in Rose Hill cemetery.

There was no funeral service. No tears. No relatives present to mourn his passing. There was not even a flower to place over the grave as a final tribute.

He was not given a pauper's burial. Hope Furniture company saw to that. He was put away nicely, in a simple but inexpensive casket.

A little plot in the southeastern part of the cemetery was cleared away. The body was taken there at 11 a. m. Sunday and buried.

It was an unusual burial. It marked the passing of a man who had $2,000 on deposit in a Los Angeles bank. But—as a dead man can write no checks he could not pay for his own funeral.

A telegram was received here during the week-end. It was from Houser's mother, of Douglas, Kansas. The telegram was the burial order. It said in part:

"Bury here, unable to get money released from bank, you have sufficient."

Houser, aged about 60, was found dead 12 days ago along the Missouri Pacific right of way two miles north-east of Hope. It was believed at first that he had met with foul play. Later developments pointed toward the fact that he came to his death from natural causes.

In Houser's pockets $150 was found and a bank book showing the $2,000 on deposit in a Los Angeles bank.

Part of the $150 was used for burial expense. The other portion was used in telephone and telegraph messages to relatives.

Hempstead's 4-H Clubs Get Honors

First in Vegetable Marketing, Second in Judging of Corn

The Hempstead county 4-H club delegates to the annual 4-H Club Congress held at the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville returned to Hope over the week end with honors in many of the contests after a week's encampment, according to Carroll S. Morrow, assistant county agent.

Hempstead county won first place in the vegetable marketing contest, represented by Cecil Tate and Quinton Derryberry as the judging team. Hempstead county's team, consisting of James Thompson, Van Hamilton and Truman Nannie, won second place in the state corn judging and seed identification contest. Joel Kinsey from Spring Hill won second place in the state harmonica contest.

The Hempstead county 4-H club band furnished music for the club camp many times and won third place in the state orchestra contest.

Miss Faye Samuel won first place in a cotton or linen dress contest. The 24 boys and girls and local leaders enjoyed the trip and encampment very much and they expect to do greater 4-H club work in the coming year.

Rest, Right Diet Help Curb Blood Pressure

To control high blood pressure and to permit the sufferer to live as long as possible, certain measures are desirable. The various possible causes of the condition must be investigated and removed or controlled if possible. Next the burden on the tissues concerned, as the blood vessels, the heart, and the kidney, must be removed or lightened as much as possible. Then everything should be done that can be done to improve the quality of the human tissues so they will be able to work more efficiently.

If every person would have his blood pressure measured at fairly frequent intervals, it would be possible to detect rises fairly early and thus to bring them more quickly under control. By a careful study of the life of the person concerned, the doctor may get an idea as to whether he is likely to develop a high blood pressure, or "H. A. D." hypertensive arterial disease.

Thus it is known that the condition tends to run in families. The fact that a father, mother, grandfather, or grandmother died from a stroke may be an indication for frequent study of the blood pressure.

Because of the importance of rest in controlling this condition, it is well to have an analysis of the habits of the individual as related to work, sleep, exercise, diet, worry, and similar factors.

Areas of infection in the teeth and in the tonsils should be cleaned up. Gradually inflammation of the kidneys may be going on for some time without being noticed. Tendency of the blood pressure in the individual to sudden fluctuations may be determined by a simple test, which involves putting one hand in ice water for one minute, measuring the blood pressure simultaneously in the other arm.

If the person with high blood pressure is surrounded by people who regularly affect his blood pressure badly, it may be necessary for him to be removed to a rest cure, a sanatorium, a resort, or some similar place in which the disturbing and blood pressure stimulating factors will not be present.

If the problem is one of financial worry, the difficulty is naturally a special problem.

The diet of the person concerned should contain enough protein to take care of his body's requirement. It used to be the thing to eliminate meat entirely. This is no longer advocated.

Salt in moderate amounts is permissible, but all condiments and spices should be used most sparingly, as they may irritate the blood vessel system.

The usual amount of slightly more than the usual amount of water is permitted in most cases. Coffee and other stimulants should not be taken late in the day, but moderate amounts of tea, coffee, or tobacco may be permitted to those who are used to them.

In this condition especially, the old medical proverb—moderation in all things—is important to remember.

A BOOK A DAY

Moving Tale Told by Willa Cather.

In "Lucy Gayheart," Willa Cather writes of that eager anticipatory zest for living that is the prerogative of fortunate youth—and tells how youth can misunderstand it and muddle it and turn the infinite chances of life into tragedy.

Lucy Gayheart is the daughter of a German watchmaker in a western Nebraska town. She loves and is loved by the son of the local banker; but she suspects her romance long enough to go to Chicago to study music, and runs into complications.

In Chicago she becomes an accompanist for a famous singer, and promptly falls in love with him, forgetting all about the lad back home. Life takes on a new richness and a new meaning for her; she lives by and for the singer, and she defiantly burns her bridges by jilting the home-towner with considerable abruptness.

And then, just as she is preparing

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

Child's Philosophic Insight Surprises.

"Mama!" Rosie pulled her mother's arm and stared with stricken eyes at the legless man selling pencils. It was the first time in her young sheltered life that she had seen human tragedy in physical form.

The man held out his pencils toward the child, but Rosie did not see them. She was horribly fascinated by the shortened body on the hot pavement.

In her heart her mother was like a child, sensitive to other people's suffering and misfortune and inclined to brood. She had no patience with those who insisted that beggars were hard cases and cheats. She admired the courage that gathered the few shreds of life together and carried on with incomplete bodies and even damaged minds.

Analyzing Misfortune Rosie insisted on talking about the man. "Let us wait until we get to the restaurant," said her mother. "It's lunch time now and we can talk better there."

Later she brought up the subject herself. "Darling, this is a lovely world that you and I live in, but you will learn as you grow up that there are many people who have a great deal of trouble. Some are sick, others get hurt and sometimes it is things we cannot see. You will not be able to go around always without noticing many things that will make you sad."

"But sadness doesn't do any good at all. It is better to help in some way. You and I could not prevent that poor man from losing his legs, could we?"

"No-o-o," Rosie answered thoughtfully. "What did that to his legs?"

Philosophic Attitude "I don't know, but I am sure it was long ago. But now I am not going to worry all afternoon about him, dear, and you need not, either. We will go to a movie and enjoy the rest of the day."

"But I can't have a good time, mother. I can't forget him."

"No, don't forget him," said mother gently, "but make it like this. Say to yourself, 'I am a happy girl and I am going to be still more happy by thinking how very fortunate I am. And I am going to be very kind and thoughtful and try to help other people in trouble.'"

Rosie smiled suddenly. "All right. You mean that you can be sorry and be very happy, too, don't you?" she said.

"Child, you do surprise me," sighed her mother. "That's it exactly."

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

Freckles Are Put on Suot.

The freckles that seemed such a cross to bear when she was thirteen often turn out to be a grown-up girl's greatest asset. After all, a few small brown dots across nose and cheeks add a touch of interest to the average woman's face and there's no reason in the world why she should be embarrassed by them.

However, if you have freckles that you wish to cover up (it's extremely dangerous and next to impossible to remove them), you can use one of the liquid powders, available everywhere. These come in shades to match exactly all types of skin, are not especially drying and certainly do stay on for a long time.

If you decide on a liquid powder, follow directions carefully and learn

Detroit Makes It 9 Straight Wins

Goes 6 Games Ahead of Yankees—Cards 3 Behind Giants

DETROIT—(AP)—Behind the four-hit pitching of Elden Auker, the Detroit Tigers downed the Chicago White Sox, 4 to 1, Sunday, sweeping the four-game series and running their string of consecutive victories to nine. New York dropped a double-header to the Athletics, putting Detroit six games in the lead.

Although Auker walked three men and hit one, he was invincible with men on bases. Vernon Kennedy, losing pitcher, gave up only six hits but also put half a dozen men on bases with passes, three of them scoring.

The game was witnessed by a crowd of 33,000, largest attendance at Navin Field this season. The series also set an attendance mark for the year, 100,000 passing through the turnstiles for the four games.

The Tiger attack was effective in the pinches, permitting the league leaders to take advantage of Kennedy's lapses of control. Gehrig, who made three hits, drove in two runners who walked in the seventh inning and Auker helped by doubling behind a base on balls in the fourth.

The four White Sox hits were evenly divided between Piet and Washington, the former scoring the Chicago run on a long fly to Applins.

Cards Lose CHICAGO—(AP)—The veteran Charley Root pitched the Cubs to a 3-to-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday before 23,500, largest crowd to turn out for a single game at Wrigley Field this season.

The Giants also lost, leaving St. Louis three games behind.

The 36-year-old Root allowed seven hits, only two of which came in the same inning, and gained his eleventh victory of the season. The triumph, the Chicagoan's fifth in 17 meetings with the world's champions this season, cut the Cardinals' string of eight straight victories and their run of seven consecutive wins over the Cubs.

U. S. Penal Colony Urged for Alaska

Lonely Rat Islands Fortunately Named for Criminal Prison Plan

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Establishment in the isolated Rat islands off Alaska of a federal penal colony where prisoners would shift for themselves without guard rule has been recommended to Attorney General Cummings. The United States would assist with food and supplies in organizing the colony.

Col. C. A. Seane of the Army Signal Corps now attached in the Baltimore area, is author of the plan. He said it made necessary by "the gangster and the racketeer." He submitted it in response to a general invitation extended by Cummings at the crime conference here last December.

The Rat islands, four in number are near the tail-end of the Aleutian group. They comprise 1,000 square miles—about Rhode Island's size—and are more than 1,000 miles from Alaska's mainland, 2,000 miles from the nearest United States point and more than 2,000 miles from Hawaii.

It became apparent to Jo at once that Marsh was using the coming party as an excuse to corner her for a talk about Fragonet. From the moment they took their places at the table he was ill at ease. He talked swiftly and rather incoherently of his plans to hold a dance in honor of Drann and the location company. Then abruptly Marsh's tone changed and he turned to Jo seriously.

"Jo . . . if you're thinking of leaving with Fragonet day after tomorrow, I—I can't let you."

"I haven't been thinking of leaving with him," Jo said.

"But you have to make a decision. Fragonet won't just let it slide. And the fact that you haven't made up your mind not to go makes me afraid that . . . perhaps you will."

Jo did not answer and Marsh went on, embarrassed. "I hate like the devil to do a thing like this, Jo. But I want to ask you—do you think as much of Fragonet as you did?"

"Do you mean because of what happened out there yesterday on the lake?" Jo raised her eyes to his. "I'm afraid I don't feel that's important. I wouldn't refuse to marry a man just because he couldn't swim for a camera flash and the Silas Drann. The truth is, I think it's terrible the way people have been treating him since that happened."

Marsh leaned back in his chair, stared at his plate a moment. Then: "All right, I'm going to let you have it. I didn't mean to go this far. He hesitated, then plunged on. "That day they were waiting for Fragonet, and I went for him at the inn. Remember?" Jo nodded, her heart skipping a beat.

"He said he was asleep. Well . . . he wasn't. He was with one of the extra girls—that Dila Saunders who came up later. They were having cocktails in her room, while the company waited."

Marsh interrupted quietly. "Jo, that's not like you. Fragonet has asked you to marry him, pleaded with you to return to Hollywood with him. And you can't fool me with your attitude of sophistication—because it's false."

It doesn't belong to you. You expect your man to be faithful?" Jo had to lower her eyes in defeat before his direct, questioning gaze.

"You do expect that, don't you Jo?"

"Yes," she told him slowly. "But—why should that action of Fragonet's mean anything more than what happened that night on the way to the Lone Tree Tavern? Men seem to have moments when they play the game with their fingers crossed, don't they?"

Marsh flushed. "Perhaps that meant more than you think, Jo. You see, I—"

But Jo had had enough. She wanted to get out into the air to think. In a swift movement she rose. Marsh had no time to leave his own chair before she had said, "There's no cause for your concern, Mr. Marsh."

"Then you're not thinking of leaving with Fragonet?" Jo smiled. "No . . . not with Fragonet. Good-night."

She turned and left him standing there, bewildered. He started as if to follow, but just at that moment Mrs. Marsh and Dabs Montgomery appeared.

"Oh, there you are!" exclaimed Mrs. Marsh, sweeping forward with Dabs at her side. "What do you mean, running off to dinner without us?"

SUN-TAN

JO HARRIS breaks her engagement to BRET PAUL, college athlete star, because first objects to her taking a job as waitress at Crest Lake Inn, fashionable summer resort owned by wealthy DOUGLAS MARSH.

Jo goes to Crest Lake. Marsh's eccentric mother dislikes her and causes difficulties. These are increased when BRET FRAGONET, NEP film actor, arrives. Fragonet pays marked attentions to Jo, but she can't see him as soon as he can secure a divorce.

Bret Paul comes to Crest Lake as life guard. BABS MONTGOMERY, Fragonet's school acquaintance who is jealous of Jo, is also there.

Fragonet leaves and returns when the film company undertakes to make part of a motion picture at the resort. Jo becomes friendly with LILA MONTGOMERY, actress. During a scene on the lake Lila narrowly escapes drowning, is rescued by Bret Paul.

Jo learns it was Bret and not Fragonet who saved her life after the swimming accident. She is on her way to see Bret when Marsh stops her, saying he wants to talk about the party next evening.

General Motors to Expand Plants

Will Spend 50 Millions on Modernization of Its Machinery

NEW YORK—Plant expansion and reconstruction work to cost $50,000,000 has been authorized by General Motors Corporation, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president, announced Sunday in issuing the company's report for the first six months of the year. The building program, Mr. Sloan said, was being undertaken because of the "more assured outlook for profitable development."

Most of the money, Mr. Sloan said, would be spent for machinery, rather than for new buildings. The program, he declared, was in line with the company's policy of decentralizing its manufacturing operations.

"Encouraged by the more assured outlook for profitable development," Mr. Sloan said, "the corporation has authorized an expansion and reconstruction program of approximately $50,000,000. When completed, there will result an increase in the production facilities of General Motors cars as domestically manufactured—Chevrolet, Pontiac and Oldsmobile in particular. The capacity of the corporation's manufacturing plants, operating both in England and in Germany, will also be importantly increased as the present capacity of these plants is inadequate to meet the current demand. There is involved in the program, domestically, a broadening of the corporation's policy of decentralization of manufacturing operations."

Rather Eat Than Work in Harvest

Jobs Go Begging at Lake County (Illinois) Soup Kitchen

CHICAGO—Out on the farms of Lake county, bumper crops are standing, faced with destruction for lack of hands to harvest them—while in Lake county, 100 idle men live off free "soup kitchens," seeming to work on the farms.

That was the amazing situation revealed Sunday by Harold F. Pilant, supervisor of Waukegan township, who threatened to cut off the free food from those men who will not accept work when it is offered.

The office of the Illinois Free Employment Bureau is only two blocks from the soup kitchen maintained by the township. There Sunday Miss Florence Brandtetter, superintendent, had jobs for 25 farm hands. Throughout the county 100 farmers were seeking help.

The jobs pay $30 a month, with room and board—ample for an unmarried man, although they are not recommended to married men. But unmarried men munching the township's food two blocks away weren't interested.

Hope Basket company baseball team rapped out 16 hits for a 13 to 8 victory here Sunday afternoon over Gar-

The Hope team took a four-run lead in the opening inning and were never even taken. An uprising in the ninth inning by Garland City accounted for seven of their eight runs.

Leading the Hope batting attack was Johnny Allen with three out of five.
Every player in the Hope lineup got at least one hit.

Hope used three pitchers, Russell, Walker and Elliott. Russell pitched good ball until the late innings when he weakened. Walker was sent in but was bombarded, being relieved by Elliott to halt the 7-run attack in the final inning.

The basket team will go to Garland

WITH THE LADIES

By Helen Weishimer

Pay Envelope Falls To Cover Erring Husband's Ways

If men and women want to err, there are plenty of alibis with which they can defend themselves. You can buy alibis two for a nickel at any counter, in assorted sizes and colors.
But they remain alibis, even if you invest a little money!

When a New York woman asked for a divorce from her husband the other day she gave as her reason the fact that he went out with other women constantly, alleging that his boss required that he do so to hold his job.
The woman, with more chivalry than her husband, refused to name the employer.

The wife, of course, didn't fully believe her husband. Surely, no employer could demand that an intimacy develop between a wage-earner and a woman who was a friend of the employer, she reasoned. Traces of lipstick patterned a very nice mouth on her husband's shirt. Just color from a red-covered book in his office, he said.

"It might have been, of course,"
Better Off Without Erring Husband

Circumstantial evidence has got more than one person into trouble.
That isn't our dispute. We are wondering how any self-respecting man could let his boss dictate his moves to him. Furthermore, if that was an excuse, we have a full measure of contempt for a man who would use such a flimsy fabrication.

The wife, of course, is much better off without such a husband in the household. Women have been given similar advice ever since Eve's daughters were old enough to have beaux. However, it usually is necessary for a woman to remove herself far enough from a situation to know it.

Live does last a while when respect for the once-beloved is gone. Sooner or later, though, it dies, too, and a pity or sense of habit acts as a substitute.

The husband who pleaded that he didn't want to kiss other lips, but his boss said he must to earn $55 a week, asks too much of credulity. After all, if he wanted to indulge in extramarital amors, he should have taken the full blame. If his boss really made such demands, he would have found a way to handle the situation harmlessly.

Business and Home Lives Separated

The great majority of business and professional people realize that one's home life and one's office life are not exactly related. A man or woman, entering an office, wears a different mood. When the day is done, he goes home. His time is his own unless he prefers to carry associates of the day into his social life. But he does so, not by a continuation of the business routine, but by meeting them on a social plane.

The wife in this particular incident realized that the big thing wasn't so much that her husband chose others.
It was the fact that he didn't want her, and her alone, that was important. If more women would realize that, they wouldn't waste so many tears. They wouldn't keep taking tucks in wide garments that they wore for shaming shoulders.

Of course, now and then, a man fills out the cloak again. That is fine. It takes common sense and divine intuition to know if he will. If he habitually doesn't, a wife might just as well put away her needle and thread.

you to my picnic party tomorrow."

down American mills.

In that sense, therefore, there is no dispute that the election was influenced by local considerations; beyond that the dispute begins. It is safe to say that most of the statements made as to the possible national significance are based—like most other political statements—on hope, rather than conviction.

The truth is that the Republicans hope the Rhode Island result means a national uprising against Mr. Roosevelt, and the Democrats hope it does not. Both sides wish they really knew.

Now To 'Fence-Mend'
What will be the effect of the incident, as a whole, on the future course of national politics?

First, it has cheered the Republicans tremendously. Their hopes are far greater than before. That means intensified attack on the administration, revived organization enthusiasm, perhaps increased campaign contributions.

Conversely it has warned the Democrats. They have been riding along confidently for a long time. Now they know that in some sectors, at least, they must fight. It is assumed that much fence-mending will begin at once.

By the same token, all remaining chance of an effective "coalition" movement would seem to have disappeared. Encouraged to hope they can win under their own party standards, the Republicans are far less likely to listen to talk of fusion.

Finally, the west is more than ever indicated as the battleground for 1936.
If they are weak in the eastern sector,
the Democrats must turn increased tax benefits; and where the wealth-taxes are designed to rest least heavily.

In that way eastern Rhode Island points an inquiring finger toward that section lying, say, from the western Pennsylvania line to the Pacific.

Storks Split Two With El Dorado

Lose First 2 to 1, But Capture Second Game Sunday 2 to 0

Hope Storks divided a double-header Sunday afternoon with the Lion Oilers of El Dorado, losing the first game 2 to 1, and winning the second, 2 to 0. Both games were played at El Dorado.

Waldo Whittaker, Alton CCC recruit, pitched for Hope in the first game. He gave up only four hits, but wildness cost him the game when he walked in two runners, the only scores
the El Dorado team made.

Lefty McDowell shutout the Oilers in the second game. He allowed only four hits.

Duke Wells, former Henderson State college football star, turned in a brilliant game for Hope at shortstop in the first game.

Raymond Robins was the offensive star for Hope in the second contest, handling several difficult chances at first base.

Manager Lloyd Coop led the batting attack for Hope with two hits in the first and three safeties in the nightcap.

The El Dorado team will come to Hope next Sunday for a double-header. Whittaker and McDowell will pitch.

The Southern-Kraftmen of Camden will appear here two days later, Tuesday, August 20.

G. O. P. Aspirants Clash

Probably there will be more clashes between those two senatorial candidates for nomination, Vandenberg and Dickinson, such as followed Dickinson's recent attack on the take-the-profits-out-of-war bill, which the Iowan sought to link with Socialism and Communism.

Vandenberg, as a member of the Senate munitions committee, supports the bill and his eloquence was impressive.

"I refuse to subscribe to the absurd philosophy that I immediately become a Socialist or a Communist if I happen to hit the war system which has crucified this world for a thousand years," he said, after Dickinson had spoken three hours and a half.

"I decline to allow the Socialist party and the communists of America to enjoy a monopoly of that great-thinking effort which proposes, if possible, to quarantine this war monster and save the generation of tomorrow from crucifixion."

"I give the senator from Iowa credit for not knowing what he is talking about."

The New Deal

ably associated with the prize political boner of the century when he called out his troops to drive the bonus army from the capital before it reached the nervous Mr. Hoover in the White House.

Feeling about Mr. Hurley on that account was still so strong last fall in his home state of Oklahoma that G. O. P. leaders ganged together to keep Pat from following his announced intention of going down to campaign for the party ticket.

And, to crown it, here's Pat admitting payments—as a lawyer, of course, and not as a lobbyist, as he'd have you know—of $100,000 from Associated Gas & Electric, with which even the other holding companies in the "power trust" won't associate.

It just goes to show you, though, how an idea like that will stick in a fellow's mind, once it bites him.

Many "Phonies" On List

In fairness, it must be admitted that Mr. Hurley landed on the list of 24 Republican "possibilities" offered by "Tanglefoot Bob" Lucas, former executive director of the G. O. P. national committee. This list continues to provide plenty of amusement here.

"You can cross off most of the 'possibilities' on the ground that they are nothing of the sort."

But leave on your list Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, Col. Frank Knox of the Chicago Daily News, Gov. Alfred M. Landon of Kansas, Congressman James W. Wadsworth of New York, and Senators McNary and Steiwer of Oregon.

Borah, too, if you insist, though it would take the kind of Republican party you never saw before to give such a notorious independent a look-in.

Some observers would also add Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa, but many folks are unable to take "Dick" seriously on any count and they just bust out laughing when you mention him as a possible party nominee.

Both Are Through

Lucas and Hurley, incidentally, have something in common. They'll still remembered here as two men who very conspicuously took the so-called rap for Mr. Hoover.

Hurley's political career was blasted.
